

I do not support changes that allow further consolidation of broadcast ownership, either in a local market or nationally. Broadcasting is about independence, diversity, and local control, not about commercial efficiency.

Further, I do not support cross-ownership of media in a local area. Again, this reduces independence and diversity.

I support changes that reverse the current trend of consolidation of ownership. It seems we are at the point of large corporations controlling the flow of information and entertainment in the interest of profit, not the public good.
